Juveniles Ousted From Provincial Play-Offs

Two Lucky Goals in First Period Paved Way For Calgary's Win

Calgary Argos advanced into the provincial juvenile final at Bellevue last night by virtue of a 5-1 decision over Coleman Juveniles. This was a "sudden death" game as the two regulation games ended in a 5-5 deadlock. A good crowd saw the game played on heavy ice and towards the end the players were unable to control the puck.

The game was won and lost midway through the first period when Kelly, of Calgary, scored from the centre zone, Polski not being set for the shot. A minute later Brooks shot from just inside the Coleman blue-line, the puck taking a bad bounce three feet from the goal crease and going over Polski's shoulder into the net.

Ross made it 3-0 early in the second period when he took Kelly's assist to score the best goal of the game. Slugg put Coleman back into the game with Coleman's only goal, scored in a scrimmage in front of Jeffries.

Kelly, who had played an outstanding game, blocked a shot at his own blue-line to make a break-away and score Calgary's fourth goal. Both teams were tired towards the end and loose defensive work in front of Polski gave Hobbs a point-blank shot to score a fifth Calgary goal.

Card Of Thanks

Coleman Juvenile hockey executive express their thanks to the public for their splendid support during the play-offs. A successful season has been enjoyed, both from a hockey standpoint as well as a financial one.

Mrs. Jack Houghton sr. is receiving the congratulations of both her family and friends to-day on the occasion of her 73rd birthday.

Flying Officer Joe Zezula, based at the Pacific coast, is visiting Coleman friends. He is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kratky.

The Journal was in error last week in reporting the marriage of Lynnie Knowles. Her husband's name is LAC Ken. Wilson, of the Royal New Zealand Air Force, and not Watson as first reported.

SIR EDWARD BEATTY DIED
TUESDAY NIGHT

Sir Edward Beatty, 65, a dominant figure in the Canadian business world and who resigned a year ago as president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, died Tuesday night in the Royal Victoria hospital at Montreal.

Sir Edward last visited Coleman in 1937 or 1938, when he was received by local mine officials, who took him on an inspection tour of the two mines.

Ottawa Gives Reason Why Receipts Not Given

We have heard discussions on a number of occasions as to why the Dominion finance department does not give some monthly acknowledgment to payroll taxpayers showing how much of their monthly contribution is in the category of compulsory savings, to be returned after the war in the form of a bond or other negotiable instrument. The suggestion is that the government is lax in not thus making acknowledgment of what it owes the taxpayer from time to time.

The Herald has secured from the income tax branch at Ottawa the answer. It is stated that the tax deducted at the source and remitted to the Crown is only a "payment on account" of the tax ultimately found due, and the employer is not required to apportion the amount deducted and remitted to the government as between the tax to be retained by the Crown and the tax to be refunded to the taxpayer after the war.

Obviously, in a great many cases the employer could not know of other sources of revenue of the employee, revenue which must be shown on the final tax form for 1942, which will be filed next June. Nor does the employer know what deductions may be allowed for sickness, etc. It is only when the taxpayer makes up his tax form in June, showing his total revenue and the total deductions allowed, then shows against his total tax the total which he has paid—including compulsory savings in both cases—that the government taxing bureau will be able to get the proper picture of the taxpayer's position and issue a compulsory savings receipt showing what the government owes the taxpayer in refundable savings. That makes it important that the taxpayer file his 1942 return in June and get his position in this matter cleared up.—Lethbridge Herald.

Local Juveniles Come From Behind to Tie Calgary in Hectic Provincial Play-Off Series

Second Game Most Thrilling in Many Years; Spectators Rush on Ice to Witness Dispute Between Teams, Officials and Referees; Calgary Lodges Protest.

Fans were certainly given their money's worth on Friday and Saturday, when the local Juveniles opposed Calgary Argos in the southern Alberta final of the provincial play-offs. The games were exciting, but the numerous disputes, which were climaxed on Saturday evening when the spectators rushed on to the ice, held the spotlight.

In Friday's game it appeared that the locals had "stage fright" and as a result their game was below par and they suffered a 4-0 trimming. Calgary on the other hand were very confident and they set out to crush their lighter and less experienced rivals with heavy body-checks, whose legality at times was a question of doubt. The body-checks bore fruit, however, as Slugg, the local's ace centre, was unable to don a uniform on Saturday evening due to bruised muscles suffered in the game.

Calgary scored a goal in the first, again in the second and two more in the third period for their 4-0 score which they took into the second game on Saturday. Goal scorers were Kelly, Gill, Hobbs and Rooney.

The Saturday game was a different affair altogether. Coleman's nervousness was gone and they showed a complete reversal of Friday's game. They played hard from the start and were not averse to stepping into an opposing forward and setting him back on his heels. There were no scoring in the first period, although checking was close. Calgary suffered penalties to Raymond and Hobbs, while Rypien, of the locals, was penalized.

The second period had progressed eight minutes when Kryzka, who had seen action for the first time in the game a moment or so before, slipped in Hud's pass to open the scoring. Beguin, of Coleman, was penalized. In the resulting power play, Rypien got a break-away, he took the goalie out of goal and from only a few feet out missed the wide-open net by shooting wide. Omelusek and Boyce were sent off for roughing and again Coleman went on the offensive. Hudz and Rypien buzzed about the Argos' net and finally scored when Hudz beat Jeffries on Rypien's assist.

The third period peaked all the excitement. Rypien scored the third goal from Hudz at 7:40 to put Coleman within one goal of tying the series. The pressure was telling on Calgary, who appeared to have lost the confidence of the first game. Kelly was penalized and the locals went all out for the equalizer. Rypien was in his old time form and his stickhandling was a treat to watch. He paved the way for the local's fourth goal, when he rifled a shot at Jeffries, Lant was on the rebound like a hawk, feinted the goalie out of goal and shot into the empty net for the tying goal of the series. Pandemonium reigned as hats went up into the air and the cheers rent the air. With less than four minutes remaining Calgary started to press and took command of the game for the remaining minutes. Seconds remained when they shot the puck at Polski. He sank to his knees with the puck and this resulted in a pile-up as players swarmed all over him. Both whistles blew to stop play. As the players rose to their feet, Rooney, a Calgary player of Friday night, who was now acting as goal judge, flashed on the red light, signalling for a goal. Heated disputes started, to which fuel was added when it became apparent that Referee Cox, under the persuasive powers of Calgary players, was awarding a goal. The goal judge came down to the ice and a moment later fists were flying between him and Cytko, the latter being given a match penalty for hitting an official.

The referee was called to the Coleman bench, where the argument was continued. Cox, visibly flustered, finally consented to a face-off alongside the Coleman net. Calgary officials then became aggressive, and again Referee Cox changed his decision to that of a goal having been scored. Argument after argument took place and it was nearing the 30-minute mark since play had been stopped. Coleman agreed to finish the one second of the game remaining under protest. As Cox went to centre ice to face-off the puck, spectators started to pour on the ice and refused to allow the face-off to take place. Many of the spectators ran to the foot of the goal judge's stand, where they heckled Rooney. Referee Cox was taken off the ice lest he be injured. Calgary officials then agreed to finish the game under protest and on that condition the game was finished. In the overtime Calgary scored when Hobbs beat Polski. Two minutes later Coleman was pressing hard, Beguin stopped the puck on his opponents' blue-line and rifled it through a mass of legs into the Calgary net to again tie the series. The game finished in a deadlock.

Increased Coal Production

Alberta's coal production in 1942 was the highest in Canada, and the highest in Alberta's history. In all, 7,754,779 tons were produced with a value of $22,582,352. Sales to Alberta consumers amounted to 1,474,795 tons, compared with 1,335,606 tons the previous year. Shipments were made to Saskatchewan, Manitoba, British Columbia, Ontario and the United States.

Charles Maurer A Prisoner of War

Mrs. Frances Maurer has received the following information from Headquarters U. S. Marine Corps, Washington, D.C.

"A partial list of American prisoners-of-war in the Manila Bay area has just been received from the International Red Cross, containing the name of your son, Private Charles E. Maurer, U.S.M.C., confirming the fact he is alive and a prisoner-of-war."

Charles attended the local schools and worked for a little while at the family's ranch in the Elk Valley. He went to the States with the original intention of studying refrigeration, but due to so many studying the same profession, he joined the Marines. He was based at Cavite in the Philippines when the Japs struck at the States, and since then he has not been heard of till the above message was received this week. Friends will rejoice with Mrs. Maurer that Charlie is still alive.

Council Deals With Routine Matters

Tax Exemptions Granted to Soldiers' Dependents; Graves in Union Cemetery Trampled on by Horses.

Regular meeting of the council was held on Monday evening. Present Mayor Antrobus; Councillors Aboussay, Cox, Dutil, Ford and Ramsay.

Mr. Joe Michalsky was present to ask a permit from council to renovate the old B.C. Cafe. He had in mind renting the first floor as a business place and the upstairs as a dwelling place. Following Mr. Michalsky's departure council discussed the request and decided to remain with the original contract, which calls for the building being torn to the ground. Had Mr. Michalsky been granted the permit he was prepared to give council an offer for the lot on which the B.C. Cafe now stands.

Mrs. C. Maurer asked for tax exemption due to her son, owner of the property of Fifth street, having joined the armed forces. Her request was granted.

Mr. Sam Howarth asked for tax exemption, due to his sole support, his son, having joined the armed forces. Request granted.

Upon Town Solicitor Bannan's recommendation, the party asking for tax exemption under the Soldiers' Exemption Act at the last meeting, was granted same.

A letter was received from Norman Plante, asking council to assist him in securing light and water service. A letter will be sent the Coleman Light & Water Co., asking that the service be installed. Should priorities be necessary a letter will be sent the steel controller, Calgary, asking him to grant the necessary priority.

Councillor Aboussay reported to council on progress of the Coleman Sports Association. The union had elected four members, the nine officials two members, business men had two members and the school teachers one member. A meeting of the committee had been held last Sunday, when all committee members but one had been in attendance. The union members had not the authority to take part in the business set-up, but had now been given a detailed description of what the association hoped to accomplish and they shot this report back to the union meeting. Councillor Aboussay stated that for the first year at least he would be very pleased if the council would delegate the parks committee to act in conjunction with the sports association committee. His request was granted. He further gained permission to have the parks committee use the town's facilities to aid the association when needed.

Mayor Antrobus reported that he had received complaints regarding the Union cemetery. A horse had become caught in the fence at the south west corner of the cemetery, where it had since died and the smell was putrid. In addition, the two gates had been taken off their hinges and one hinge was badly bent. Further, horses had been trampling over a number of graves. The above was confirmed by Constable Antle, who had visited the cemetery on Sunday. The horse, he stated, would be burned, probably on Tuesday. The bent hinge would cause trouble, as it was imbedded in a cement pillar. Council authorized a letter be sent to Mr. A. E. Ferguson, asking that he make sure all gates are closed after each funeral.

A culvert at the bottom of Carbondale hill is frozen and has caused an overflow of water to partially flood No. 3 highway. Council were informed that nothing could be done until this culvert thawed itself out.

In Nazi Germany

A FEW WEEKS AGO the German people observed the tenth anniversary of the founding of the National Socialist regime. As everyone knows, this unannounced anniversary was marked by a powerful attack on Berlin by British and Canadian bombers, and by news of serious German defeats in Russia and Africa. The dismal and apologetic radio addresses arranged by leaders of the Nazi party were interrupted by the crash of British bombs, and it appeared that the day could in no way have been called one of happy celebration by the German people. In his early years in office, Hitler assured his people that the policy of his party was not to involve the country in war, nor to conquer and annex other nations. Yet after ten years of aggression, 5,000,000 Germans have died on foreign battlefields in Hitler's wars of aggression, and many thousands are homeless because of air attacks.

Workers' Lot Has Declined

In connection with the progress of the German people under the Hitler regime, some very interesting facts and figures have recently been given out by the British Ministry of Information. The lot of the farmer has appeared to decline steadily in the past ten years. It is said that between 1932 and 1939 the number of men engaged in farm work decreased by one million, and the decline has continued since that time. Industrial workers have also had a difficult time. In 1933, all Trades Unions were abolished, their funds being seized and their leaders arrested. All workers' rights were also abolished, overtime work became the general and the number of industrial accidents rose from 327,000 in 1932, to 1,766,000 in 1938.

Public Health Record Poor

Malnutrition is said to have increased greatly among German workers and there has been a decline in the standard of national health. In the past ten years, deaths from scarlet fever, infantile paralysis and other contagious diseases have risen by 200%. The republican system of government in Germany was one medical doctor to every 1,300 people, but in 1941, there was only one doctor to every 15,000 people. These facts show clearly that living conditions under Nazi rule are far from happy for the common people, and they serve to remind us again of the things for which we are fighting. When we compare conditions here with those in Germany today, we see that we must at all costs make sure that it is our way of life which survives this war.

HEALTH LEAGUE OF CANADA THREE SQUARE MEALS A DAY

THREE NUTRITIOUS MEALS a day are needed by every worker for maximum health. This is particularly true of war workers who must maintain their health at a high standard to prevent accidents and attain better production. Accepting full responsibility for our personal health and that of our families necessitates planning and providing three good meals a day. Those who live away from home can accept the same responsibility through careful selection of meals and allowing adequate time in which to eat.

Breakfast is usually the worst meal of the day. Many workers dash off to work after bolting a slice of toast and a cup of tea. Imagine boiling at heavy manual labor all morning with practically nothing for breakfast! Good meals to be enjoyed and used to best advantage by the worker must provide foods selected for their nutritive value, be well-cooked and served in attractive, pleasant surroundings in a cheerful atmosphere. Management owes it to workers to provide such facilities for their meals in the plant.

What the worker will select for his noon meal or take in his well-filled lunch box will depend upon what he has for his other two meals. A total day's food supply should contain the following: (1) A pint of milk, that is, two glasses of milk, and you can count cheese or butter milk as part of that. (2) A serving of meat, poultry or sea foods. (3) One egg. (4) An orange, or tomato, or a serving of grapefruit, orange juice, tomato juice or raw cabbage. (5) One or more servings of leafy green or yellow vegetables, such as spinach, kale, cress, carrots, etc. (6) Two or more servings of potatoes, other vegetables or fruit. (7) A serving of whole grain cereals, such as rolled oats, cracked wheat, etc. Bread should be of the whole wheat variety. (8) Fats, such as butter, with added vitamin A, of course a sufficient amount of water to drink.

Make sure of your three squares a day and you'll do a better job. Write the Western Division Health League of Canada, 111 Avenue Road, Toronto, for your free, authoritative Vitamin Chart.

THE GREATER MENACE

The Nazis are reviving the old cry — "We are saving the world from Bolshevism." Caught in a trap of his own making, says the Ottawa Citizen, Hitler is whistling to keep up his courage. As for the rest of the world, it has seen Nazi terrorism at work and knows which is the greater menace.

HORSE VACCINATION

Necessary For The Prevention Of Equine Encephalomyelitis

Although the history of equine encephalomyelitis is well known to many, it is well perhaps to review the matter and mention some of the most recent findings in connection with the disease that stock owners may fully appreciate, not only the economic side, but the newer aspect, that pertaining to public health.

Sleeping sickness of horses in Saskatchewan was first recognized as such in 1935 when a fairly extensive outbreak occurred. In 1936, few cases appeared, but in 1937, a second and more extensive epidemic occurred, followed in 1938 by one that was so severe that some 15,000 horses were lost.

It was extremely difficult at first to control the disease since there was no suitable immunizing agent available. In 1938, however, Chick Embryo vaccine was introduced, which we have found to be almost 100% effective; in fact it is quite safe to state that a horse properly vaccinated prior to an outbreak occurring will not contract the disease. In spite of this disease being ideal for the practice of preventive medicine, unfortunately the opportunity has not been grasped, with the result that the disease could perhaps have been completely controlled had vaccine been used regularly.

After the extensive outbreak of 1938, stock owners were greatly alarmed, with the result that, in the spring of 1939, some 450,000 horses were vaccinated in the Province of Saskatchewan alone. Whether or not this program had any bearing on the incidence of the disease that year, is true that very few cases occurred, and those which did were confined to non-vaccinated animals. Because of the freedom from the disease in 1939, there was not the same keen interest in vaccination in the spring of 1940, therefore comparatively few animals were protected. Luck was with us that year and, although isolated cases developed throughout the Province, there was nothing approaching an epidemic.

Because of comparative freedom from the disease for two years, many were of the opinion that further vaccination was unnecessary and little was done in the spring of 1941. With amazing suddenness, however, an outbreak commenced in the middle of June, cases being recognized in quite distant parts of the Province at the same time. Since manufacturing concerns anticipated considerable spring vaccination, large stock owners had early in the year, but when the outbreak occurred, most of this vaccine was out-dated and of no value. Owing to the extension of the outbreak in the United States, American companies were unable to send further shipments of new vaccine and, because of this, there was an acute shortage throughout western Canada. That as many horses as possible be protected, the Department of Veterinary Science at the University of Saskatchewan increased production and distributed sufficient vaccine to keep the outbreak fairly well under control. This was accomplished with a great deal of difficulty and much sacrifice on the part of the staff of the Department who worked long hours throughout the season.

That such an unfortunate situation may not arise this year, stock owners should vaccinate their animals in April or May; do not wait until an outbreak occurs. The loss by the death of one or two horses is very much greater than the necessary outlay for the protection of a fair sized stud or for the purchase of a bottle of serum to treat one developed case.

In many instances last year, farmers waited until the disease actually appeared in their district, and many taking any action. It should be realized that horses may yet be necessary for the carrying on of our agriculture.

pursuits; mechanical power may be extremely difficult to secure and the consumption of fuel may be further curtailed at any time. The farmer who depends entirely on truck and tractor power may be in a very precarious position and it seems to be economically sound to protect every available horse. Not only should work horses be vaccinated; young animals should be vaccinated as well, since they are absolutely essential in the future to do work on farms, or to take the place of delivery trucks in cities, which very shortly may be the case.

During the years encephalomyelitis was common among horses in Saskatchewan, physicians reported an increasing number of cases of encephalitis in man, and the question arose as to whether or not there was any relationship between the two infections. In 1938, when the disease was so prevalent in horses, some 60 cases were recognized in man and, during the following year, we isolated the equine virus from three human cases. Just prior to this discovery, workers in the United States also found that man was susceptible to the same type of virus. Although it was definitely shown that man could contract the horse disease, and that, as a result, people had to be vaccinated, very little interest was taken in the matter until last year when the most extensive human epidemic ever recorded occurred in the northern States of Montana and Saskatchewan. During the course of this outbreak, we were successful in isolating the virus or germ which caused the disease, and by blood tests that the entire outbreak was due to the same germ as equine encephalomyelitis. In Saskatchewan alone, 550 persons contracted the disease; eight per cent of these died.

To state that horses were responsible for the human epidemic would be untrue because of the limited knowledge of how the human infection occurs. It is true, however, that the elimination of this disease in the horse, undoubtedly a virus reservoir, would tend to reduce the source of infection, and this can only be done by vaccinating each year. No one can predict what may happen in the future in regard to human or equine outbreaks, but, if the behaviour of the horse disease is any criterion we must not expect that the human disease will recur.

There are a number of points in connection with the equine and the human outbreaks that are very similar. For example, when the equine disease first appeared in Saskatchewan it undoubtedly travelled from the northern United States to the south, and then to the southern part of Saskatchewan. After several outbreaks it appeared that the virus had become acclimated to our Province and had lived over the winter months. This was suggested by the fact that the 1938 and 1941 epidemics sprang up in all parts of the Province at the same time and definitely from one focus of infection. The first human outbreak commenced in the extreme south, and travelled northward as did that of last year. This season, however, much more territory was covered, cases being recognized as far as Saskatchewan. If conditions are suitable for the development of virus this season, we may, therefore, expect another human outbreak which may be much more serious than any in the past. Although, as already mentioned, we have no definite proof that horses are responsible for human epidemics, we do know that a sick horse is a constant source of danger to those coming in contact with him, and we know, too, that people have become infected when treating and handling diseased animals.

Encephalomyelitis is strictly a seasonal disease (occurring during the fly season), and because of this fact many workers are of the opinion that it is carried by biting insects. Mosquitoes have been proven capable of transferring the disease from infected to healthy experimental animals, and it seems quite probable that they are vectors in the field. Even if this be true, they are not wholly responsible for the carrying of virus, as the disease is very often extremely prevalent in seasons and areas where mosquitoes are totally absent. Last year, for example, in the northern part of Saskatchewan, there were very few mosquitoes, but the horse disease was equally as prevalent as in the south where mosquitoes were very numerous. Again, the human epidemic, although more extensive in the south, spread northward out of the mosquito infested area and continued to do so until late fall. It appears, however, that wherever possible mosquitoes should be controlled and every precaution taken to protect animals and humans from all biting insects.

In many districts there are insufficient veterinary surgeons to undertake the vaccinating of horses; in these parts it will be necessary for farmers to do their own. That this may be done, rather than calling the local "handy man" who through his careless methods may carry the disease from one farm to another, the following procedure is suggested:

1. Secure a 10 cc hypodermic syringe equipped with two needles; this may be purchased at almost any local drug store. Immerse the syringe and the needles in boiling water for twenty minutes before using them.
2. Clip and thoroughly cleanse with rubbing alcohol a small area of the horse's neck half way between the shoulder and the head.
3. Attach a needle to the syringe; insert it through the rubber cap on the bottle containing the vaccine and draw the contents into the syringe.
4. With the left hand, hold out the skin of the prepared area of the horse's neck; introduce the needle beneath the skin and inject the vaccine.
5. Remove the needle; with clean gauze, saturated with rubbing alcohol, cleanse the point of injection, and the prepared area of the neck again.

Propaganda Programs

Sent By Axis Radio Stations In Europe And Aimed At Canada

1. Axis radio stations in Europe are aiming propaganda programs at French-Canada and at certain nationalistic minorities in the prairie provinces. W. Gladstone Murray, former director-general of broadcasting for Canada, declared.
2. Murray said these Axis broadcasts contain offers of independent forms of government in the so-called new order of Nazi world control.
3. Canada still has no short-wave radio transmitters, Murray told the Business & Professional Women's Club of Toronto, and is unable to communicate any message of hope or encouragement to the conquered peoples of Europe.
4. On the other hand, Murray said, the enemy is using the short wave for the dissemination of rumors in Canada. Fortunately, their lack of human appeal and humor, rather than any counter-measures, have saved the situation, Murray added.

In Brazil's Amazon valley, rubber gatherers got priorities on a new supply of 1,500,000 fish hooks, result of their telegram to U.S. Ambassador Jefferson Caffery: "No fish hooks, no fish; no fish, no eat, no eat, no rubber."

SYSTEM OF WORKS PRIORITIES FOR DOMINION AFTER THE WAR IN PROCESS OF BEING DRAFTED

Ottawa.—A system of priorities for works projects in the rehabilitation period after the war now is in the process of being drafted by various bodies across Canada.

This development was mentioned briefly by Dr. Cyril James, principal of McGill University and chairman of the government's advisory committee on reconstruction, when he appeared as a witness before the House of Commons reconstruction committee.

There will be a priority of employment, a priority of social need and also a priority of finance worked out, I hope, for the whole of the Dominion within not too many more months," Dr. James said.

So far the work has been done on a regional basis. British Columbia's post-war rehabilitation council recently completed a 200-page interim report, the first of its kind in the provincial field. Several other provinces have similar surveys under way. Local groups are functioning in such places as Vancouver, Fort William, Toronto and Halifax, and another is about to start work in Montreal.

Now Dr. James' committee is working on the details of a plan for establishment of a federal body to check and co-ordinate the various suggested programs. The aim will be to list projects in order of priority, with detailed estimates of the amount of employment to be made available, and what share of the cost would have to be provided by government agencies and what share by private enterprise.

REPORT DERIDED

British Observer Skeptical About German Fleet Being Assembled
London.—A roundabout report from Stockholm that the German high sea fleet is assembling in waters around northern Norway was described by a British observer as "all baloney."

The report was published in the Stockholm newspaper Alltids and quoted "British circles in Lissabon" as saying Germans were concentrating the major part of their fleet, including battleships, cruisers and aircraft carriers in northern Norwegian waters.

The spokesman said such reports are usually Axis inspired.

CANADA'S DOCTORS

May Soon Have To Register Says Report From Ottawa

Ottawa.—The Ottawa Journal said in a newspaper story that the labor department, through its wartime bureau of technical personnel, soon may register all Canada's physicians and surgeons.

The newspaper said it had learned that this move, designed to relieve shortage of medical men in most rural areas and some smaller urban centres, "has been under discussion in the labor department for some time."

NEW STRATEGY MAY BE USED BY ALLIED NATIONS IN THEIR EFFORT TO RECAPTURE BURMA

New Delhi.—American and Chinese soldiers soon may join the British forces in an inch-by-inch push against the Japanese in Burma, the back door to China.

The Americans and Chinese, together with British and Indian troops, are undergoing training in the tactics that Daniel Boone used to conquer the wilderness.

The current fighting in Burma and the nature of training being given troops in India both indicate that the reconquest of Burma, may be undertaken on an inch-by-inch basis rather than waiting for the end of the monsoon next fall to launch an all-out drive.

It had been believed that Allied plans envisaged a full-scale attack on Burma from the sea. But the recent destruction of the Japanese convoy in the Bismarck sea—with its revelation of the by-now well-known fact that ships dare not move into waters controlled by enemy airplanes—may have brought about a change in the strategy of the high command.

If that is the case, it would mean

STEEP ROCK IRON

To Develop Property Which Lies West of Port Arthur

Toronto.—Steep Rock Iron Mines Limited has brought to a successful conclusion its negotiations for funds to develop the property which lies west of Port Arthur and the work will now proceed at all possible speed with expectation of bringing the mine to the production stage within 17 months from the present. This announcement is made in a lengthy official statement to the shareholders.

Under agreements concluded the company will have available $8,727,500 in Canadian funds and, according to the company's engineers, this sum will be sufficient to put the mine on a production basis. Plans envisage production of 2,000,000 tons of ore annually and at that rate of mining the estimated ore reserves would keep the plant operating 50 years.

The bulk of the money is assured from the United States. Under a four per cent. first mortgage bond the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in Washington, D.C., is advancing $5,000,000 and Otis and Company of Cleveland, Ohio, has underwritten at 70 a debenture issue of $2,250,000 from which will be realized $2,025,000. The Dominion and the Ontario governments are also contributing to the development of the Steep Rock property. The federal government has undertaken to advance to the Canadian National Railway the cost of constructing spur line and docks at Port Arthur, thus relieving the company of an estimated outlay of $2,500,000.

BUILDING PROGRAM

Britain Is Preparing Plan For Reconstruction After The War
London.—The first indication of steps the British government intends to take to overcome problems of demobilization and turn over to peacetime production has been presented in a white paper revealing a house-building program to reconstruct bomb-battered Britain after the war.

The paper, work of a committee headed by Sir Ernest Simon, envisaged a 12-year plan being ready when war ends which would require a trained labor force of about 1,250,000 building trade workers. Another 4,000,000 would find employment directly in the preparation of materials and the provision of essential subsidiary services.

Mexico Is Making Effort To Support United Nations

Montreal.—A member of the Mexican parliament said that Mexico is making every effort to send an army overseas. The M.P. was Alfredo F. D. Escobar, who addressed a dinner given in his honor by the Canadian Inter-American Association.

Mexico, said Escobar, is trying to give the lead to other Latin-American countries in fighting the Axis and supporting the United Nations.

JUST PROPAGANDA

Goebbels Has Good Reason For Spreading Reports About Hitler
Slough, England.—Edgar Granville, Independent member of parliament, said in an address that reports Hitler is ill are sheer propaganda intended to lull the United Nations into complacency.

"Propaganda Minister Goebbels is attempting to put over the biggest Nazi sensation since the flight of Hess," he said. "It takes the form of saying Hitler is ill, dethroned by the German army or retired to Berchtesgaden."

This was described as a desperate trick intended to "postpone our readiness to come to final grips with the enemy in Europe." Granville said, "We have got to defeat Hitlerism as well as Hitler, Goebbels' tongue as well as Goering's army."

WORKERS DEFIANT

Refusing Summons To Report For Duty In German Factories

London.—German strong arm squads have started house-to-house searches for French workers defying a labor roundup aimed at sending 1,000,000 Frenchmen to Germany within three months, underground reports from the continent said.

The latest reports of simmering violence in France said Pierre Laval, Vichy chief, had promised Hitler 1,000,000 French workers for his war factories. Since the first of the year 350,000 have been conscripted.

The countrywide rebellion against the roundup was reflected in reports that the French were refusing in wholesale lots to heed the Nazi-Vichy summonses, with occupation authorities trying to rout the dissidents out of their hiding places.

Allied Chiefs Confer In India

British and American army officials who took part in a joint staff conference in New Delhi, India, are shown walking away from the Imperial Secretariat building, where the meeting was held. Left to right, front to rear, may be seen, Field Marshal Sir Archibald Wavell and Lieut.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell, commanding all U.S. army forces in China, Burma and India. Immediately behind them are Lieut.-Gen. Brennen Somervell, head of service and supply for the entire U.S. army; Lieut.-Gen. Allen Hartley, Field Marshal Sir John Dill and Lieut.-Gen. H. H. Arnold, commander of all U.S. army air forces, who flew to India after the now-famous Casablanca conferences.

Tree Planting Car Rolls Again

To instruct and educate Canadians in the value of planting and cultivating trees to conserve water, provide wind-breaks to check soil drifting, and to beautify otherwise treeless areas, the Canadian Forestry Association is again sending its Tree Planting car, under the direction of Alan M. Beaven, over Canadian Pacific Railway lines in southwestern Manitoba and southeastern Saskatchewan. Provided by the C.P.R., the car is fitted with seats to make it into a travelling theatre and there motion pictures are used, with other forms of instruction, to tell the important story of tree planting. At Windthorst, March 15, the car's itinerary for the spring tour includes the following other points: Kennedy, Bender, Wawota, Dumas, Fairlight, Walpole, Ebor, Maryfield, reaching Reston, March 25; Souris, March 27; Hartney, March 29; Leader, March 30; Tisdale, March 31; Alder, April 2; Shortfalls, April 3; Estevan, April 8; Torquay, April 12; Balfour, April 14; Frohisher, April 15; Alameda, April 16; Oxbow, April 17; Glen Ewen, April 19; Carnduff, April 20; Carleton Place, April 21; Gainsborough, April 22; Pierson, April 26; Elva, April 27; Napinka, April 28; Brandon, April 29; Weyburn, May 4; McAuley, May 5; Tantallon, May 6; Rocanville, May 7; Esterhazy, May 8; Hazelcliff, May 10; Dubuc, May 11; Stockholm, May 12; Killis, May 13; Grayson, May 14; Neudorf, May 15; Lemberg, May 18; Balcarres, May 20; Abernethy, May 21; Lipton, May 22; Patrick, May 24; Cupar, May 25; Dysart, May 26; Earl Grey, May 27; Southey, May 28; Regina, May 29.

CONFERENCE OF SIX NATIONS MAY BE CALLED TO CONSIDER MANY POST-WAR PROBLEMS

NORTH AIR ROUTE

Plan Trip From Boston To Moscow In Eighteen Hours

Boston.—An application, labelled as the first of its kind filed by a domestic airline, proposed the institution of air routes across the north Atlantic from Boston to London, Moscow and intermediate north European cities.

Northeast Airlines, Inc., announcing it had filed the application with the civil aeronautics board in Washington, said the proposed Boston-to-Moscow flight would permit a distance of about 5,000 miles to be travelled in 18 hours at a probable cost "no greater than that of a third class trans-Atlantic steamship fare."

London would be reached here in 14 hours; Paris and Amsterdam in an additional hour.

MUCH TIME LOST

Strikes In January Showed Sharp Increase Over Last Year

Ottawa.—Lost time through strikes increased sharply in January, the labor department has reported. In that month there were 34 strikes compared with 13 in December, 1942, and a similar number in January, 1942.

Strikes of steelworkers at Sydney, N.S., Trenton, N.S., and Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., accounted for 88 per cent. of the time loss which days compared with 6,016 the previous month and 46,606 in January, 1942.

The number of workers involved in January strikes was 18,857. In December, 1,434 workers were involved in strikes and totalled 166,707 man-working 2,715 in January, 1942.

GRIS JOIN R.C.A.F.

Ottawa.—During February more recruits enlisted in the women's division of the R.C.A.F. than in any month since the service was formed in October, 1942. Exact recruiting figures are not available but enlistments that month raised the strength of the women's division above the 10,000 mark.

FIGHT AGAINST SUBMARINES EXPECTED TO BE HARDEST DURING THE PRESENT YEAR

London.—Indications have multiplied that Germany is now pushing her greatest submarine offensive since the spring of 1917 in an effort to delay the impending Anglo-American invasion of Europe until her armies can make a final attack to crush Russia.

London and Washington released, almost simultaneously, vivid descriptions of two past battles between Allied warships and German submarine "wolf packs," possibly to prepare the public for the bitter battles to come which the Allies must win.

Washington.—President Roosevelt disclosed that perhaps six United Nations conferences might be called to consider various phases of post-war problems.

Plans are under way for a conference on food production and distribution for all the populations of the world after the war.

In addition, the president told a press conference, probably there will be a meeting on post-war relief.

Beyond that, he said, there might be two or three or four other conferences, mainly in the fields of economics and finance.

Meanwhile, a plea by British Foreign Secretary Eden that U.S., England, Russia and China mould their wartime unity into the framework for a lasting peace encouraged congressional advocates of collective security to new efforts.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no indication as to when or where the conferences might be held, but he indicated that invitations have gone out to the United Nations for a food parity.

He said he hopes it will not be held in Washington, adding that he has four or five other smaller spots in U.S. in mind.

Once before the president expressed a view that a smaller place is more desirable for an important meeting, citing the success of his talks with Prime Minister Churchill at Casablanca.

While a tentative date has been picked for the food discussions, Mr. Roosevelt would not specify the one in mind. It is expected to take place, however, within two months.

WILL BOMB JAPAN

New York.—The Tokyo newspaper Asahi said that Japan expects the United States air forces to bomb industrial districts of Japan this year or, at the latest, next year and appealed to the population to be prepared. The account broadcast by the Berlin radio quoting a Tokyo dispatch, was recorded by The Associated Press.

most observers believed, before they can attack Hitler's "European fortress."

At least 14 submarines were sighted on the surface and many others were known to have been beneath the surface during a three-day running attack on an Allied convoy in the north Atlantic last month, the British admiralty revealed.

Another wolf pack of at least six submarines was reported by the U.S. navy department to have been laying in wait for another Allied convoy in the north Atlantic last month.

Skechy information available indicated that the Germans were concentrating most of their submarines, estimated at upwards of 500, in the north Atlantic while the Italians shared the burden of attacks in the south Atlantic.

The Anglo-American-Canadian anti-submarine conference recently concluded in Washington indicated that the Allied naval command already is searching for, and perhaps has found, a solution to Germany's present intensive submarine campaign.

"These preparations are being made none too soon," the London Daily Mail commented. "The U-boat peril is at its height in 1943. Hitler's only chance to avert the certain doom of his regime is somehow to stop the coming Allied offensive in the west."

"The only way he can do that is by disrupting our supply lines by reducing to a mere trickle the mighty stream of materials and reinforcements which will be needed to sustain this offensive. His only instrument is the submarine."

"The real fight has not yet begun. The U-boat war will reach its height between April and October in the good weather months, when Germany may be expected to attack with new submarines and bigger wolf packs."

"We should therefore accept with caution the recent statement that the U-boat already is as good as defeated."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

The Sage of British Columbia Speaks

Occasionally a gentleman who lives at Halcyon Spring, B.C., sends forth an interesting epistle individual viewpoint on world on world events. He has a decidedly events and politics, therefore The Journal prints his latest letter, entitled "An Atlantic Charter."

THE ATLANTIC CHARTER

The dawn of the New Year ushered in a brighter day for the Allies and probably marked the noon-hour of the titanic struggle. Old John Bull, with pipe and paunch, had been in a funkhole for 25 years, and it has taken a long time for re-conditioning. Let us hope that never again shall the British Empire be disarmed, but that it will always be ready to fight the moment that anyone is disposed to toss his hat into the ring. Only in preparedness is there assurance of peace and security.

The present political turmoil in French North Africa is a sample of what has been going on in France for 25 years. Even the national disaster has not brought an end to the fighting and squabbling of 20 different political groups. A government would be elected and kicked out in 24 hours. As elsewhere, the only thought of politicians is to get their nose in the trough, and keep it there. Spies, quillings and 5th columnists completed the wreck and when the Germans struck the country collapsed.

The recognition by the Allies of Admiral Darlan as high commissioner of French North Africa was, perhaps, as stated, a temporary expedient. But for General de Gaulle and the Fighting French it smelled like the first stinkweed of the season. It is a sturdy weed which thrives in the field of international politics, and is a prolific cause of war. Four years Darlan has been held up by the allied press as a traitor, renegade, quillings and all around bad man who should be destroyed. Along comes a young man who does the job. The speedy drum-head court-martial, if any was held, and immediate execution, have been surrounded in too much suspicious secrecy. The thought of the young man to save his country-not to destroy it. Even his name has been suppressed.

We hear a lot about the Atlantic Charter. During Great War I, the Liberty Charter was the main propaganda of the Allies. It was heralded as the tocsin of the New Age and better things. The principal plan was, "We shall fight until, among other things, Belgium, Serbia and Montenegro are free and independent." The betrayal of Montenegro and Armenia by the Allies were two of the most treacherous acts of history. If it is no better than the Liberty Charter of days gone by, the Atlantic Charter will not be worth a hoot. And, if the experience of the past is any guide, that may be about its value. Unless justice is done to Montenegro, Armenia, Finland, Austria, Korea and others, the solid foundation for the next war will be well laid.

The enlistment of women for the armed forces goes on with unabated fury. It is an additional sign of the decadence of the race. They are taken from the work for which they are fitted, and placed where they are not wanted. The sight of women parading about in the uniforms of major-general and high officers of the army, is enough to make a real soldier throw up his stomach. There is a suspicion, well founded—and it has been voiced in some quarters, that we are fighting for the British Empire and what is called imperialism. The two are synonymous and inseparable. These worried individuals may be assured that it is just what we are fighting for. The Empire, in collusion with France has made terrible mistakes and has been guilty of the basest treacheries, for which we now pay in full. In looking against this sordid world, we can see nothing better, or, for our ideals and the glorious traditions of the past, nearly as good. So, for the Empire we shall fight all comers, and in the words of the immortal Ben Hur, "Dammed be he who cries enough." "The battle joins, and in a moment's fight." Death, or joyful conquest, ends the fight."

F. E. Burnham, Brig.-Gen.

New Hopes With Spring

Sunday, officially, was the first day of spring, and it was a day of bright sunshine and strong wind which eliminated a considerable amount of winter's snow. Spring brings renewed hope. Prime Minister Churchill chose a good day to broadcast another message of cheer and determination to the people of the Empire and of the whole world. Though confident, he stressed the fact that he made no rosy promises as to when the war would end; but enjoined his listeners to not falter and to "keep their eye on the ball."

Canadians will have to make up their minds to do still more towards the war effort. Despite the large sums of money raised for war services and the purchase of Victory bonds and War Savings Certificates, there has been little sacrifice; in fact some haven't denied themselves a single thing, except going short of these goods which the ration board controls. But there is still a minority who have done practically nothing. The majority are doing their share, and the share of the slackers as well, in many cases.

Hansard is Illuminating

Democracy has its weaknesses and its strength. Reading a recent copy of Hansard, which is the official printed record of the debates and proceedings in the House of Commons, Ottawa, one is struck by the time spent in debate on subjects which under private management would be decided in a tenth of the time. But the rules of Parliament permit anyone and everyone to speak for forty minutes, and some members surely take full advantage of the privilege. Some talk just to get the record into Hansard, then get a large number of extra copies to send their constituents to show them that their representative has said something.

For instance, last week the fuel problem was under discussion, and it lasted from 3 p.m. till 11 p.m. with a couple of hours' interruption for dinner. Members representing constituencies from the Pacific to the Atlantic coasts spoke, including E. G. Hansell, member for Macleod, who by the way remarked that the Marsh Social Security Plan "wasn't worth a row of pins."

To sum up the whole debate, one member stated that a lot of time had been wasted and that the acute fuel shortage throughout Canada had been caused by an unprecedented period of low temperature and deep snow.

The trouble is that despite the warnings of the government and coal dealers to people to stock up early in the year, they simply will not do it, and then blame everyone but themselves if when a long cold spell comes, they cannot get coal on a moment's notice.

As an example, last week Saskatchewan experienced a severe snowstorm. The town of Estevan is practically surrounded by lignite coal fields, yet it reported a shortage of fuel among the homes in town. Now, whose fault was that? It appears that people even close to coal mines are just as lax in getting coal, which is easily available, into their cellars, as those living at a distance whose fuel has to be shipped by rail. It's so easy to blame everyone but ourselves for failing to do the things we should do at the right time.

From the Cradle to the Grave

So many expect the government to do the things they themselves should do. Our next plan will be social security from the cradle to the grave, which will surely please a lot of people—if it comes! Lazy people have been encouraged not to work, not to pay their debts, to believe that they will have dividends; (on what one cannot imagine) in fact the law of nature which generally speaking is based on the survival of the fittest, is to be completely reversed, and all you'll have to do under the cradle to the grave security plan is to just let the government take care of your problems. Just count your blessings, count them one at a time, then await the wondrous things which will be done.

It looks so nice on paper; or to hear such benefits spoken of. So did glided promises in 1935. What a glorious day is coming; at least those who believe the world owes them a living may think so, even after the lessons of the past eight years.

"Flannelfoot" Henry Williams, one of the most notorious criminals known to Scotland Yard, died in a Midlands hospital at 54. He earned his nickname because of his habit of muffling his feet with lengths of flannel. He made more than 2,000 burglaries over a five-year period before police finally caught up to him.

Religious Education

The best thing I've read about Religious Education for a long time, and a very great deal has been written of late,—was a remark I came across only the other day to the effect that it does not mean education in a particular subject but a particular kind of education in all subjects; in other words, teaching everything in a special way.

I found that most illuminating because of its implications.

For such a statement implies, of course, first, that the ability and willingness and desire to teach every subject are there in the mind and will and heart of him or her who has the responsibility of training these embryo citizens. That is a condition much to be desired.

Again, it implies that "education" in education; not just a hotch-pot of materials and a smattering of facts here and there; but an honest idea of what it's all about, of what it's for, of what purpose it serves in life. Perhaps the greatest deterioration that has come to pass in education is this break up into parts that don't fit; this lack of connection between circumference and centre. A change here, as implied, would be a tremendous gain.

And third, it implies a conception of the person to be taught as a unity; a whole person; intellect, character, experience, vocation, all combined. Such a conception is as old as all good education and as new as all bad substitutes. And such a conception must be ever borne in mind if we are really to have what we boast of in our democratic way of life, viz: a liberal education.

For such reasons I found the statement illuminating; that religious education means teaching everything in a special way.

Canada Wants a $1,100,000,000 Loan

The pace quickens. Montgomery attacks in Tunisia, Timoshenko threatens Smolensk, Eden visits Washington.

These are history making events which may well shape the war's future course.

As the pace quickens so does the demand for more and more armaments. Canada, as a leader in the production of munitions in the Allied cause, must uphold her end. Money is required. Billions of dollars are needed to help turn out the munitions of war.

April 26th will see the launching of a new Victory Loan. $1,100,000,000 is the maximum objective. You must give if you care for your freedom. The war has reached a critical point. Lend your dollars and help tip the scales in the Allies favor.

Save Fats and Bones

AND HELP SMASH THE AXIS!

The next time you are frying or roasting something, just imagine the satisfaction it would give you to pour that hot fat right down the back of Adolph, Tojo or Benito.

You can even do better than that. Fats make glycerine, and glycerine makes high explosives to sink their submarines, destroy their aeroplanes and tanks. Bones produce fat, also glue for war industry.

Every spoonful of dripping, every ounce of scrap fat, and every bone, cooked, uncooked or dry, must be saved. Strain all drippings through an ordinary strainer into a clean wide-mouthed can. When you have collected a pound or more of fat drippings take it to your meat dealer who will pay you the established price for the dripping and the scrap fat. Or you can dispose of them through any Municipal or Salvage Committee collection system IN EFFECT in your community.

You can be a munition maker right in your own kitchen. So—every day, this easy way, keep working for Victory by saving every drop of fat dripping, every piece of scrap fat, and every bone. This campaign is for the duration.

Salvation Army Buys Gooey Building on Main Street

Lieut. Marks, of the Salvation Army, announced on Monday that the Salvation Army had traded its building, plus a sum of money, for the building on east main street, owned by Gooey. Lieut. Marks left the hall on Monday afternoon and has moved into two rooms at the back of the new Salvation Army building. Gooey has now moved into his new quarters.

The old Salvation Army building was constructed in 1916 by the now Brigadiers Acton and Mundy. The former is now in charge of all Salvation Army activities in Newfoundland, and the latter in charge of all auxiliary officers overseas.

The new building is to undergo considerable renovation before it is suitable for Salvation Army work. Brigadier Urmak will visit here in the near future to give final approval to the arrangements.

In the meantime, Lieut. Marks is conducting his meetings in the I.O.F. hall, and attention is drawn to his notice under church notes. A farewell meeting was held in the old hall last Thursday evening, which was attended by quite a number of S. A. members.

OVERSEAS WELFARE FUND ASKS TO BE NOTIFIED IF MEN NOT RECEIVING GIFT CIGARETTES

Overseas Welfare Fund committee became a little peeved the other day, and rightly so, when they received a notice from an officer informing them that the party to whom the Fund's cigarettes were addressed had been back in Canada since before the New Year.

Four parcels of cigarettes, including the Xmas gift of 1,000, had been sent this man since his departure from Britain. The cigarettes and their cost in dollars and cents were lost as far as the Welfare Fund was concerned. Even to date he has failed to notify the Fund of his arrival in Canada. The unfortunate part of the matter is that this particular man is really not a local man, but enlisted in Coleman, and was then thought by the committee as entitled to cigarettes from Coleman.

A number of overseas men receiving cigarettes monthly are far behind in their acknowledgment cards. The committee are wondering if some are not receiving their cigarettes. An appeal is made to parents or wives of all local men overseas to mention in their next letters that cigarettes are sent monthly and if they are not receiving them to send a card to the Overseas Welfare Fund with their proper address and the date when cigarettes were last received.

FOR THE CHILDREN
Rhyme from Dollyland
THE KHAKI-CLAD HERO
"He's only a doll," they lightly say,
"Like a soldier bravely clad."
He was only made that a child might play
And her little heart be glad.
"She'll carry him here, she'll carry him there—
When weary she'll cast him aside,
He never has lived with his soldierly air,
Nor has like a hero died."
How little they know that a warrior's heart
Is hid in my quiet breast.
That I would long to go if a war should start
And do my bit with the rest!
"He has only sawdust for blood," they cry,
And they smile at the wounds they make;
But my sawdust blood from a tree so high
And its heart of oak I take.
'Tis true none ever has seen me walk
With a hero's valiant stride,
And no one ever has heard me talk
Of the brave little thoughts inside.
But the heroes never speak, you know,
Of the wonderful deeds they do;
But when they are called they gladly go
And they willingly die for you.
And if I had only a life to give,
Though I may be only a doll,
I think I would bravely fight and live
Or bravely I'd fight and fall.

A Walrus aircraft being hoisted by crane on board the British battleship H.M.S. "Warspite"—famous for her successful attack on Narvik at the head of British destroyers in April, 1940, and still doing fine work for the Navy. The "Warspite" was laid down in 1913 but underwent extensive reconstruction in 1937. Her eight 15-inch guns are carried in 4 twin gun turrets. These with eight 6-inch guns, twin 4-inch A.A. guns and considerable smaller armament, make her a formidable fighting unit.

WAR WHOOP

1943 MODEL

YOU HEAR IT at all hours . . . that long-drawn cry of the locomotive whistle. It's the war whoop of the railways.

It may be a troop train speeding to keep a date with a convoy . . . it may be a long freight loaded with tanks, guns and other materials of war, many of them built by the railways themselves . . . it may be another week's supply of raw materials to keep a war plant in production, or food, fuel and other essentials for the home front.

It is the proud war whoop of Canada's greatest war industry—the railways, which are serving the nation as effectively in war as in peace. Only the railways can furnish mass transportation on such a scale.

Your railways were ready . . . ready in war, so that Canada could strike with all her might. They will be ready in peace again to serve a greater Canada . . . rolling ever forward on highways of steel.

CANADIAN RAILWAY FREIGHT RATES ARE THE LOWEST IN THE WORLD

CANADIAN NATIONAL  CANADIAN PACIFIC

C.P.R. FORCES WIN BATTLE OF ELEMENTS

Huge snowdrifts lining the Canadian Pacific Railway's right-of-way from one end of Canada to the other stood as victorious monuments to the company's courageous maintenance forces, train crews and other ranks, who for the better part of a month battled one of the most sustained and severe blizzards that ever played havoc with Canadian transportation. And they kept the lines clear.

The storm attacked the company's transportation facilities with blitz-like fury, piling tons of snow over its vital steel highways, sheathing its telegraph wires with ice to the thickness of a man's wrist, snapping poles, and hurling an icy challenge to Canadian Pacific forces who literally "dared Nature to do its worst."

The situation would have been bad enough under normal traffic conditions. The Canadian Pacific, however, was engaged in handling the heaviest volume of traffic in its history—more than double the amount carried by the railway in 1939. This, coupled with limitations on manpower, placed an added burden on the company's resources.

Snow-plows powered by three, sometimes four, powerful locomotives made almost continuous assaults at the mountainous snowdrifts that reached particularly appalling dimensions in Ontario and Quebec where the above scenes were photographed. Other blizzard-borne "gremlins" attacked the railway in the form of ice that sheathed engines, coaches, switches and rails; driving snow that reduced visibility to zero, stymied turn-tables, hampered yard operations and even froze coal in the chutes.

Time and again rails would be cleared only to have the track again blocked by the driving snow. With few exceptions the trains were kept moving. Passengers accepted the situation in fine spirit and were full of praise for the company's tireless personnel and their efforts to keep the lines clear.

Above scenes show how the railway's powerful plows bucked the immense drifts and how the snow was loaded onto cars for disposal. Engine crews attend locomotive's ice-sheathed mechanism (lower left) while scene at lower right shows plow emerging victoriously from newly cleared cut.

Major Alexander Anderson, 70, the first Lovat Scout, died at Mitcham. The Lovat Scouts were formed in 1900 and the father of the present Lord Lovat picked Anderson out as his first recruit when he saw the young soldier striding across a barracks square.

This could only happen at Christmas time. At the crack of dawn Christmas Day officers and sergeants of a unit near Newbury, Berkshire, quietly entered the men's huts, gently awakened the sleepers and thrust tea and biscuits into their hands.

HOW TO FILL OUT YOUR APPLICATION FOR CANNING SUGAR

This year housewives must estimate in advance the amount of sugar required for canning and jam-making, so that arrangements may be made to provide and distribute the necessary supplies. Applications must be sent in to your Local Ration Board by April 15th. Use the application in your new Ration Book for this purpose.

Canning sugar will be allowed for all fresh fruits, including citron and wild fruits. Marrow, tomatoes and pumpkins are considered as vegetables and no canning sugar will be allowed for them.

— HOW TO FIGURE OUT THE AMOUNT OF SUGAR NEEDED —

CANNING

Allow ½ lb. of sugar for each quart sealer.

Estimate the TOTAL number of quart sealers you plan to put up — then use the quick, practical method of allowing ½ lb. of sugar for each quart sealer. Don't try and decide exactly the number of each kind of fruit you plan to put up. Some fruits may be more plentiful than others. Base your estimates on the number of sealers you have on hand, what you put up last year, or what you think your needs will be this year.

Estimates based on these methods are within the canning sugar ration, and the amounts are satisfactory for wartime canning and jam and jelly making, as proven by test in the Dominion Department of Agriculture experimental kitchens.

Your completed application must be sent to your Local Ration Board by

JAM or JELLY MAKING

Allow 1½ lbs. of sugar for each quart of jam or jelly.

Most people use jars of various shapes and sizes. Take a number of the jars you usually use and see how many cups of water they hold. Four (4) cups make a quart. In this way you will be able to estimate the number of quarts of jam or jelly your jars will hold. Then allow 1½ lbs. of sugar per quart for your requirements. For example, for 8 quarts of jam or jelly, you will require 12 lbs. of sugar.

IMPORTANT NOTE

The Dominion Department of Agriculture recommends canning fruit in preference to making jam or jelly because:

More fruit can be put up with less sugar and at less cost.

Canned fruit retains more of the vitamin value of the fresh fruit.

WHEN AND HOW CANNING SUGAR WILL BE MADE AVAILABLE

When your Local Ration Board has reviewed your application you will be provided, sometime before June 1st, with special canning sugar coupons. These coupons will entitle you to buy sugar, at any grocery store, at specified intervals. You do not have to buy all your sugar at once.

COMPLETE AND SEND IN YOUR APPLICATION BEFORE APRIL 15

Complete your application form as shown in the illustration and mail it to your Local Ration Board not later than April 15th. Attach the application forms from the ration books of the other persons you will be feeding in your household. Do not write anything but the serial numbers of the owners on these other forms. Simply copy the serial numbers from the front of their ration books on to their application forms and pin them to your own fully completed application.

APPLICATION FOR CANNING SUGAR

I, MRS. JOHN JONES, of 60 MAIN STREET, CENTRAL, S.E., CALGARY, ALBERTA, hereby apply for a ration of canning sugar for the purpose of canning fruit for my household.

I am enclosing herewith the application forms from the ration books of the other persons in my household who will be feeding in my household.

I declare that the information given in this application is true and correct.

Signed: Mrs. John Jones

Dated: March 25, 1943

Mrs. Jones has decided that her canning programme will be 40 quarts of fruit of different kinds. She allows one-half pound of sugar for each quart, and therefore will need 20 pounds of sugar for canning. She decides that she will put up 6 quarts of jam and jelly. She allows 1½ pounds of sugar for each quart of jam, and therefore will need 9 pounds of sugar for jam and jelly making. She adds the two amounts of sugar together (20 + 9) and writes the total (29 pounds) on her application, together with the number of persons she intends to feed in her own household. To her own fully completed application form she attaches the application forms of the other persons in her household she is planning to feed. Only the individual serial numbers need be given on these accompanying application forms.

In estimating your canning and jam-making requirements, storage space should be carefully considered. Poor storage may cause spoilage and waste. Canned fruit should be kept in a cool, dry, dark place. Don't use canned fruits on your table when fresh fruits are available. Plan to use your home-canned fruits in the winter months only.

Rationing for Victory

It is commonly said that food will win the war and write the peace. If this is true, then our ability to distribute food to the starving nations of Europe will certainly depend on how well we work out our distribution problems today.

Now rationing brings this question pretty close to our own doorstep. Constructive criticism where there are obvious inefficiencies and inequalities will be welcomed by the authorities, but in these days of crisis there is no room for any criticism of the sacrifices asked of us. There are still too many who want to win this war on the cheap, and restrictions such as rationing show them up all too clearly.

We must see that rationing is intended not to deprive us, but to ensure that all are supplied adequately. It is a great test of national character and individual patriotism. And it can do us a lot of good, too! The British have found that their national health has improved. No one-starves-luxuries and extras go by the board. Rationing can put a nation into training for the tough job ahead.

"Not what you desire, But what you require, That's the motto we shoppers have got to Most quickly acquire."

So runs one of the "Pull Together Canada" songs, describing the spirit that will make our ration-books weapons for victory. With this spirit, Government, farmer, merchant, and consumer alike can handle our food for the greatest good of all, voluntarily sharing profits and hardships, and demonstrating that "there's enough for everyone's need but not for their greed."

The real test today is not whether you and I go without butter, but it is whether we realize the kind of life and death struggle we are engaged in. When we see that the issue must be Victory—or the clock goes back a thousand years—then rationing assumes its rightful proportions. Then we gladly accept the sacrifices which will dot the 'i's and cross the 't's and put a capital V in front of total victory.

To Spite the Face (War Finance Publicity Committee)

How strange it is that in this year of 1943, a group of Canadian workers in Ontario should decide to threaten the powers that be by announcing that if they cannot get as much beer as they require, when they require it, they will retaliate by refusing to buy Victory Bonds and by selling those which they have already bought. How everybody would laugh at a man who announced that because the city would not run a water main to his house he was not going to save any more money, and in addition, he was going to cancel his fire and life insurance policies. Yet there is little to choose between the attitude of this little group of workers and the man who wanted a water main.

The attitude of these angry beer seekers appears to be developed by a feeling that when people buy Victory Bonds they are doing the country a favor. What they fail to grasp is this. Sure the Canadian men who put themselves up as targets for enemy bullets need all the fighting equipment we can supply through the purchase of bonds, but they do not get that equipment as a favor. When we buy bonds, we favor only ourselves. We put our savings where they are protected from loss, and we get three per cent interest, which is good profit in these days of reduced interest rates.

These Ontario men might have just as well said, "If you won't let us buy the beer we want, we will punish ourselves further by ceasing to be concerned about our own future, and by losing the money we have been making on the bonds we have already bought."

To millions of hockey fans, the voice of Foster Hewitt is the most familiar of all on the air. Here he is at the microphone ready to start evening entertainment. Fans all over the Dominion listen to him in rapt delight, but to radio men, interested in his technique, it is a recurring miracle how he manages to record the games, play by play, at lightning speed, and with incredible accuracy, while down there on the ice skates flash, sticks dart, and the elusive puck flies from corner to corner. To Canadian ears, Hewitt remains the ace hockey reporter on any net work. Foster Hewitt is heard on the N.H.L. Hockey broadcast from Toronto at 7:05 p.m. MDT on Saturdays. This broadcast is carried on station CBK Watrous and other western stations.

GARDENS ARE VITAL WAR NEED

This year more than ever before gardens are vital. Not only are they needed for providing essential food, but in growing vegetables and flowers, too, one will find a useful and pleasant recreation open to almost every citizen of the Dominion, a recreation that will provide a healing tonic for jaded war nerves. In the spring one turns naturally to gardening. Digging in the soil, sowing seeds and watching the plants develop, provides a welcome relief from the worries of our modern life and will be particularly appreciated in this eventful year, when tension was never greater, and when many of our normal recreations may be no longer possible.

Seeds For Victory Go to Many Lands

NEW YORK.—(CP)—Recognizing that seeds are the most concentrated form in which food material can be supplied to the United Nations, the United States government is sending many tons of them to other lands. Recently an airplane load of seeds was sent to Brazil in time to catch the planting season south of the equator. Another plane winged a full load of lettuce, cauliflower and beet seeds to far-off India. Australia is also due for U.S. sprouts according to the Department of Agriculture.

This month four bushels of a new type of soy bean seed, developed in up-state New York, were sent Russia. In both localities the conventional type of soy bean would not thrive. Great Britain is also partially dependent on American seeds, to replace those formerly imported from the continent.

From such shipments, which occupy relatively little cargo space, many times their weight in fresh vegetables are being grown to help solve the United Nations' food problem.

Thousands of British-made lend-lease barrage balloons now protect the west coast of the United States.

LUMBER EXPORTS DOWN

Swedish lumber exports during 1942 amounted to 366,000 standards compared with 475,000 standards during the previous year.

SYNTHETIC SPICES

Synthetic spices, including cinnamon, mace, nutmeg and ginger, have been developed to replace imported natural spices.

Fire-irons now have been standardized in Britain at the request of the Board of Trade. It means an end to manufacture of fancy fire-place tongs.

On this, our 75th Birthday

TODAY, our countries are at war—engaged in a desperate struggle to determine whether the freedom we have created and cherished shall survive or perish.

Beside the all-embracing immensity of that issue, the Seventy-fifth Anniversary which Metropolitan celebrates this month is of small importance.

Yet, on our 75th birthday, it is perhaps proper that this company, representing nearly thirty million policyholders in Canada and the United States, should here voice its faith in the future, and its determination to help make that future brighter than any period in the past.

We have just reason for that faith. Ours is a business that has been built on faith—faith in the continued and growing greatness of Canada and the United States, faith in the integrity of our people.

In the 75 years since Metropolitan was founded, on March 24, 1868, we have faced crisis after crisis—wars, panics, depressions, disasters of many kinds... and from each such crisis we have seen our countries emerge stronger than ever. We confidently believe that they will do just that again—that the best years of history lie before us.

We have every reason, too, for our determination to help make that future brighter. No business, perhaps, touches the lives and aspirations of millions of people more closely than ours. It is our plain duty to help those people fulfill their dreams—of an education for their children, of security for their families, of financial independence in their own old age.

In the past, we have tried to perform that duty through the wise investment of more than six billion dollars which we hold for the benefit of our policyholders. We have tried to do it through conscientious, economical management, so that insurance costs would be held to a minimum. We have tried to do it through the prompt payment of all benefits—which, in the 75 years of our existence, have totalled over nine and a half billion dollars.

And through our organized health activities, established in 1909, we have tried to make every possible contribution to healthier, longer lives for our policyholders—lives which, taken from birth, now average over twenty years longer than they did in 1868.

In doing these things, we have also tried to be a good citizen. For we are part of Canada and the United States. Their future is our future. And in this critical hour in history, we say again—our faith in that future has never been stronger.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Yugoslavian troops killed 12,000 Germans and Italians in February, says a Tass despatch from Cairo.

The Dominion bureau of statistics reported that the commercial production of hay and pasture seeds in Canada in 1942 is currently estimated at 34,700,000 pounds.

The University of Manitoba has accepted a $1,000 fellowship to commemorate the outstanding contribution to western agriculture of the late Dr. E. Cora Hind.

Brig. A. J. Orenstein, who was recently made Commander of the Bath for his work in the Middle East has been appointed director-general of medical services in South Africa.

Work has been started on translating the Encyclopedia Britannica into Chinese, it was announced. This "colossal undertaking" will require several years, the announcement said.

The Yugoslav government in London said the Germans have executed 1,250 Serb hostages in Belgrade alone in two recent massacres, apparently in fear of an Allied invasion of the Balkans.

The British government has informed the British film business it must cut down on celluloid film by 25 per cent, and trade experts believe the best way will be by shorter hours in movie houses.

A newly-developed glass which permits gas welders to look through blinding glare and see welding operations from beginning to end is announced by Dr. E. D. Tillyer, research director of the American Optical Company.

Trim Suit For A Tot

By ANNE ADAMS

It's suit season for "small fry" too, as Anne Adams cleverly proves with Pattern 4281. Won't this outfit look captivating on your tot? It's so practical! The flaring skirt is firmly, comfortably kept in place by a bodice top. The fitted jacket has a jaunty "cadet" cut and two smart high-riding pockets.

Pattern 4281 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6 takes 2 1/2 yards 35-inch. Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man. "Because of the slowness of the mails delivery of our patterns may take a few days longer than usual."

Was Quite Correct

But Recruit Was Thinking Of Another Kind Of Adjutant

The young recruit, a university graduate, was appearing before the army examination board.

The first "intelligence question was: "What is an adjutant?"

Came the reply: "An adjutant is a large bird of uncouth appearance. It has an almost bald head, a tremendous capacity for eating and acts as a public scavenger. It can swallow a cat with ease."

The examining officer almost fainted.

Subsequent investigation, however, proved that the recruit was correct. He was an almost word-by-word definition as laid down in the National and Everyman's encyclopedia.

NAVAL AWARDS FOR C.N.S. OFFICERS

Honors and promotions have been received by 12 former officers of the Canadian National Steamships now serving in the Royal Canadian Navy. All of these so honored are professional seamen who entered active service from their peacetime assignments through the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve. Five of them, commencing as apprentices, served their entire sea-going career with the company. Of those who were accorded recognition in the Honors List, three were appointed to be officers of the Military Division of the Order of the British Empire, and one was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross.

Eight officers of the Royal Canadian Navy who had formerly served on the deck, in the engine room and in the purser's department of the Canadian National Steamships received promotions. Shown above:

Order of the British Empire:
1. Lieutenant-Commander N. V. Clarke, R.C.N.R., whose home is in Halifax. He was formerly a first officer in the Canadian National service and had been with the company since 1923.

2. Lieutenant (Engineer) L. G. F. Despres, R.C.N.R., of Montigny, Que., formerly a second engineer in the steamships. He joined the engine room forces of the company in 1920.

3. Lieutenant-Commander (Engineer) A. B. Arnison (Torpedo) of Vancouver, who prior to joining the Canadian Navy had 18 years service with the company's Pacific Coast fleet. Distinguished Service Cross:

4. Acting Commander D. C. Wallace, R.C.N.R., a native of Pictou, N.S., whose home is in Halifax, and a former Chief Officer with the Canadian National Steamships. He entered the service in 1921.

Promoted to Commander:

5. Commander O. C. Robertson advanced from Lieut. Commander. His home is in Montreal. He started his sea-going career with the C.N.S. as an apprentice in 1924, and served with the company until he joined the Navy. He is now senior officer of H.M.C.S. Prince Robert, which the naval department statement terms "a renowned auxiliary cruiser which has figured in several major operations of this war."

To Lieutenant-Commander:

6. A. K. Young, of Montreal, formerly Chief Officer in the C.N.S. service, began as an apprentice in 1922.

7. H. D. MacKay, of Halifax, began as an apprentice in 1930 was Third Officer in 1934, and First Officer when he joined the navy.

8. E. W. T. Surtees (Engineer), of Montreal, a former chief engineer with the steamships, joined the service in 1926, serving in various engine room capacities.

To Paymaster Lieutenant-Commander:

9. C. R. Boggs, of Montreal, joined the C.N.S. in 1931. Saint John, N.B., had been in the company's service since June, 1936.

10. H. R. Northrup, whose home is in Saint John, N.B., joined the office of the company in 1931 and became purser's clerk in 1935.

11. W. J. Marshall, of Montreal, joined the staff of the Canadian National Railways in 1930 and two years later transferred to the purser's staff of Canadian National Steamships.

Husband: "Nothing you left out could make it taste like that."

Mother: "Betty, John brought you home very late last night."

Betty: "Yes, it was late, Mother. Did the noise disturb you?"

Mother: "No, dear, it wasn't the noise. It was the silence."

Lesson: John 20:19 to 21:25.
Devotional reading: Psalm 16.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Appears to Ten of the Disciples, John 20:19-23. On the evening of the first Easter, in that upper room hallowed by the presence of the Master, the bewildered disciples were met together, secretly, for fear of the Jews. They were crushed by the crucifixion of their Lord, filled with doubt and terror, when Jesus suddenly appeared in their midst and said, "Peace be unto you." The door was closed, and they were terrified (Lk. 24:37), thinking they were gazing at a spirit. To reassure them and to convince them of his identity, Jesus showed them his hands, through which the nails had been driven to fasten him to the cross, and his side, which the soldier's spear had pierced. The disciples believed and were filled with joy.

Again Jesus said to them, "Peace be unto you." This may have been a repetition of his previous greeting, or it may have been that after some unrecorded words he uttered this as a farewell when he was about to leave them. And then he gave them his "Easter commission," as the Catholic Bible terms it, and bade them continue his work: "As the Father hath sent me, even so send you" were his words. And then came the bestowment of power to carry out his commission—he breathed on them, and exhorted them to receive the Holy Spirit. The Greek word "pneuma," translated "Spirit," means literally breath; compare Luke 24:49, "Inspiration is breathing. It is an uplifting influence of one spirit upon another. A congregation listens to an inspiring address, an audience to inspiring music. Emotion, thoughts, feelings pour from mind to mind. One soul breathes life into another soul; God breathes life into us all. This is inspiration: the elevating or clarifying influences which one spirit may have upon another spirit. Belief in divine inspiration is belief that God's Spirit has such an influence on human spirits."

"The great charter which followed the gift—the power of forgiving or retaining sin—must be understood in consonance with the preceding commission and endowment." "The disciples, endowed with Christ's spirit, could drive away sin from their community; if they did not, the sin would remain. When Christ says these words to his disciples, his meaning is, My disciples will be responsible for the continuance of sin in this world. If they follow my example, inhibit my spirit, and accept my companionship, they will be able to abolish sin and bring in the kingdom of God. The responsibility is theirs. If they do not abolish sin, it will not be abolished" (Lyman Abbott).

CHAPTER XII

MONSIEUR Andre Ribott, eight days out of Bir Mazul, was at peace with the world. The renegade, seated beside a glowing fire, had just finished his evening meal. Beside him sat Lt. Kolb and Annette Fournier. Behind the trio stood a soldier, the guard who had kept the French girl under surveillance ever since Ribott had delivered her into the hands of the Germans.

A moon shone over the plain on which the sheep were being rested for the night. A ridge of curving dunes foreshortened the southern horizon, and in a portion of the northern sky a patch of cloud was drifting toward the east. If that cloud increased, reflected Ribott, it could afford his unwilling shepherd an opportunity to slip unseen into the shadows of the relatively near-by dunes. He laughed, knowing how faint that danger was. All the water of the caravan was on the trucks behind the barracksed camels not a hundred yards to the left of Ribott, and it had been fear of the arid desert as much as the guns of the Germans that had forced the berbers into submission.

Even now, out of the darkness, one of the burmoused men was skirting the edge of the bunched sheep, returning to the campfire to get a bowl of couscous. As the newcomer ate, he counted the men crouched about the fire. Eight, in addition to himself—enough for his purpose. The campboy was set aside; the man belched and shifted his kufiya in gaze at the small cloud floating across the stars.

"Sheik Ismeddin is among the dunes." The words were spoken barely loud enough to be heard by the nearest Arab. "When that cloud touches the moon, the camel-riders of the Kahiri will sweep through the camp of the Germans."

There was a stir among the Bedouins, a stir that became a low murmur as all eyes turned to the speaker. That uplifted face outlined in the firelight—had they not seen the blue-eyed man with the slightly crooked nose and left for dead at the Lonely Well?

The circle quivered and the man beside Jack Storey said, "What proof have you that our sheik lives?"

"If I have risen from the dead, why not Ismeddin?"

The Arab fingered his beard, then nodded. "That we seen the one fact makes the other possible. But you were the enemy of Ismeddin—the killer of Mustafa. We cannot believe you come from our leader."

"Of that, too, I have proof," smiled Storey, and from under his burmoused came a loaded pistol that was pressed into the hand of the surprised Berber. "Sheik Ismeddin sends you this."

OTHER weapons came out beneath the American's cloak. The guns passed around the dimming fire, vanishing under the sand and as Storey whispered the instructions of Ismeddin.

The first to stroll away from the fire was Storey himself. The cloud was nearing the moon. He shuffled aimlessly toward the other camp fire. One of the shadowy figures about the blaze stood up. Storey's pulse quickened as he recognized Annette. There were two men seated on the ground and one of them grunted in German. A soldier in the background stepped beside the girl, wrapped a rope about her wrists, then escorted her to the door of a tent several yards away.

Annette disappeared inside the tent and the soldier stationed himself square before the entrance. The Kahiri might keep a lax watch on the unarmed Kahiri, but he was determined that Annette Fournier should not escape him.

A wisp of cloud swirled toward the moon, but dipped away. Storey moved closer, trusting that burmoused and kufiya would bring him undetected within striking distance of the men who stood between himself and Annette. The thing was a matter of seconds now.

Andre Ribott turned his head, and Storey moved away from the shadow of the tent. "Come here, you!" called the Frenchman.

Storey halted, touched the automatic between the dagger, then advanced slowly to answer the summons. But that the loitering figure was a masquerader was farthest from Ribott's thoughts. The renegade waved toward the empty plates and bowls on the ground before him and Kolb. "Clean up that mess."

The American stooped, gathering up the dishes. Under the shadow of his kufiya he glanced, first at the cloud in the sky, then at the two Germans and the Frenchman. He had won his objective too soon. He must not create any disturbance until Ismeddin had launched his surprise attack. Bits of cold rice clung to the sides of one of the bowls. Storey seated himself on crossed legs, and to create an excuse for lingering, began to eat the scraps of the meal.

LT. Kolb viewed the performance with a disgusted eye. "Filthy dog!" he muttered, rising to his feet. Storey paused in his enforced eating to shove away from his knee one of the married sticks of the bonfire, the action stirring the fire as the brushwood moved. Storey dipped into the bowl again.

"Mein Herr," Kolb spoke to Ribott, "it seems to me that there are quite a few of those Arabs in the vicinity of those ammunition trucks. I saw three of them just now moving among the camels and baggage. Get over there and tell them to scatter. Those fellows are unarmed, but I have only one man guarding our stuff."

The renegade strode away, and then in the heavens the advancing cloud touched and swam across the surface of the moon. Storey set down his bowl and placed his hand, not under his cloak, but on his knee close to the thick piece of wood he had thrust deeper into the fire.

LT. Kolb paused, frowning. Into the silence had come a drumming sound, faint but persistent. The frown deepened on the German's brow as the sound increased in volume. Suddenly, with a startled oath, Kolb left the fire and in a great leap

"ACHTUNG!" shouted the running officer. "We are attacked!"

A wild yell from the darkness gave him answer. "La-ihnu illa Allah!" And spurring home sent bullets hailing into the camp.

The guard before the tent gripped his rifle uncertainly. Storey closed his fingers on the twisted branch. Fire whirled around his head, and the flaming brand flew from his hand, like a stone from a sling, and drove into the face of the soldier.

The man gasped in pain as wood and fire dug into his flesh. He dropped the rifle and staggered, clawing at the sparks that blinded him. Lunging forward, Storey caught the falling weapon by the barrel and crashed the heavy stock against the head of the reeling guard.

The Nazi dropped. Storey tore the flap of the tent and darted within. The dim glow of the fire enabled him to see the girl lying on the ground, and his arms swept up the huddled figure.

"It's Jack Storey, Annette," he spoke in her ear.

It seemed incredible that the camp could have reached such a state of pandemonium in the few seconds that had elapsed since Storey had flung the torch. Camels were plunging through the semi-darkness; shouts and gunfire mingled with the snarl and bleat of camels and sheep.

With the girl in his arms, Storey raced toward the trucks, almost tripping over a snarling sheep. From another direction came four soldiers, running for the grenades and guns that would check the furious rush of Ismeddin.

A blast of lead met the soldiers as they neared the piled baggage behind which crouched the Kahiri Storey had armed. The Nazis fell back, but Storey did not slacken. His Arab dress had saved him from the bullets. The American flung himself down behind a hobbled dromedary and drew his gun. Out on the sweeping plain the Germans were bringing order out of the confusion, seeking position where their discipline would outbalance the odds of mounts and numbers.

But the battle was decided before Kolb could get organized. The sheep, frightened by the clamor and trampled by the onrushing camels, bolted. The stampeding animals struck against the ranks of the Germans like a slamming tide, scattering the unmounted men. The dromedaries went with the wooden wave, and the remorseless Kahiri turned gun, knife and sword on their tumbling, demoralized foes.

IT WAS morning before the last Berber, hunting the fleeing Nazis through gully and dune, returned satisfied that their work was done. The command of LT. Kolb had been wiped out, the lieutenant himself and Andre Ribott among the slain.

After the dawn prayers and breakfast, Ismeddin the Lawless came to say good-by to the French girl who had become his friend. "The Kahiri return to their hills. You, O Sidi, are still minded to travel toward Egypt?"

Annette Fournier, in her dark haricam was standing beside the American. "Mademoiselle—" said Storey. She smiled at him. "I shall be all right, Jacques. My work is still unfinished. I must take these sheep back to Algeria. They go to France to feed the hungry mouths for which they were intended."

"But, Annette—Capt. Lebeau will make you prisoner once more. Why don't you come with me?" He hesitated to touch her hand. "I love you, Annette. Give up this dangerous life—"

"No, Jacques." The girl shook her head. "I must return these sheep, and if I can get out of Algeria, I must still work to free France."

"I" said Ismeddin the Lawless, "take the sheep back to Ain Saffa. Go with this man, Sitt Annette."

"Come with me, Annette," pleaded Storey. "Even America's your activities need not end. There is no place in all the world, now, where men and women are not needed to work in the cause of liberty and freedom."

For a moment she looked into his eyes. Then, with a little nod and a

GARDEN NOTES

Cultivation Vital

Usually all the difference between a fine, thriving garden and the other kind is one or two thorough cultivations. Before the garden is planted it should be spaded or plowed thoroughly, then just as the seeds or plants go in it should be cultivated or raked fine. When the first plants are coming through, old gardeners advise another thorough cultivation, and a couple more at ten days' intervals later on.

This may sound like a lot of work but it is surprising how easy it is if carried out early and regularly. The weeds never get a chance to grow and the soil to bake. On the other hand, even in dry weather most vegetables will come right along if the soil about them is kept fine and crumbly. This work will be much easier if one has the proper tools, a fairly big, hand-drawn cultivator for small vegetable gardens, a wheel hoe or even small tractor for the larger ones.

Thinning Is Necessary

Another important job that looks harder than it really is, is thinning. No vegetable can develop properly unless it has plenty of room. Small things like carrots need about three inches between, beets about four, corn three to the hill. With fine seed much thinning can be saved by sowing thinly in the first place. With flowers that are grown from seed, thinning is equally important. They must have room or they will grow spindly and break down probably in the first windstorm.

Remember They Grow

All perennial flowers, shrubs and trees are small when originally planted, but in a few years it is amazing how much room they take up. The average person plants them far too close together and in the case of trees and shrubs, far too close to the house or fence.

As a general rule, shrubs, trees and flowers should have half as much room between as their mature height. This means at least two feet apart for perennials, three and a half feet for the ordinary spirea, and from twenty-five to fifty feet for the general run of Canadian hardwood trees.

At first this may seem far too open, but the space between may be taken up with annual flowers in the case of a perennial bed, and with temporary, quick-growing shrubbery and trees, with the others.

The professional adviser a thorough rolling of the lawn each spring to press roots back firmly into the soil. They also urge one thorough weeding each year with a special spudger, and at least one good application of fertilizer. The latter is most important as it will tend to promote rapid growth, which will choke out most weeds. It also improves the colour.

LOVED POEMS BRING YOU COURAGE, COMPANIONSHIP

How inspiring these lines from Longfellow's "A Psalm of Life." Haven't you often wished you had saved such favorite poems, could turn to them for courage, companionship? Ever new is "My Garden," by Thomas Edward Brown. It ends:

"Not God! in gardens" when the eve is cool?

Nay, but I have a sign: "Tis very sure God walks in mine."

Another favorite you want to keep by you is "Thoughts" by Ella Wheeler Wilcox:

"Hide in your heart a better thought. Still it has power to blight. Think Love, although you speak it not. It gives the world more light."

Unforgettable, too, is "Abou Ben Adhem" by Leigh Hunt:

"I pray thee then, Write me as one that loves his fellow-men."

And there is the deathless love poem, beginning—

"Drink to me only with thine eyes, And I will pledge with mine—"

Local Juveniles

Disputes were still not finished, however. At the end of the 10-minute overtime, Calgary went off the ice and players began taking off their skates. Officials argued as well as referees and spectators. At ten minutes from midnight it was agreed to get a ruling from the president of the A.A.H.A. and so came to an end a thrilling and very enjoyable evening's entertainment.

On Monday morning telegrams to Manager Ray Spillers revealed that Calgary had protested the game on the grounds that a goal had been disallowed.

Joe McDougall, member of the A.A.H.A., had arranged with the Bellevue arena to have that building available for a game on Tuesday evening. A wire from Jack Moss, of the A.A.H.A., stated that the game had to be played and finished by Tuesday evening.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Wm. Antle, wore an afternoon powder blue silk dress, with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of carnations and cala lilies.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Ruth Jackson, wore an afternoon sheer dress of red and black, with matching accessories, and a corsage of green and white carnations.

The groom was attended by Ronald Jackson.

Mrs. M. Antle, mother of the bride, selected an afternoon dress of navy blue, trimmed in white, and wore a corsage of carnations.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. The bride will remain at present in Coleman, the groom having since reported back to his army base.

FOLLACK-KURA

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the United church manse, Coleman, Saturday evening, March 20, when Private Edward Follack, of the Army Service Corps at Camrose, and Miss Helen Kura, of Hillcrest, were united in marriage.

The official witnesses of the marriage were Steve Bawovsky and Fred Choman, both of Coleman.

The groom was spending a short leave in the Pass and returned to continue his training at Camrose. For the present the bride will remain at her home at Hillcrest.

Groundhog day is also known as Candlemas day.

WEDDINGS

TROTZ-ANTLE

A quiet wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening, March 17, in St. Alban's church, when Laura, second daughter of Mrs. Antle and the late Harry Antle, became the bride of Pte. Joseph Trotz, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Trotz, both of Coleman. Rev. J. R. Hague officiated at the ceremony.
